Market volatility... Economic crisis... What to expect in 2009?

"Farm financing crunch hits Argentine grains outlook... The uncertainty caused by the farmer's credit crunch is being aggravated by a recent slide in global grains prices & severe drought across the nation's central crop belt that has already cut forecasts for wheat, corn & sunseed output" Reuters, 26/9/08

"Riyadh outsources wheat industry...wheat imports will resume from spring 2009 & wheat production would be phased out completely by 2016." www.meed.com, 3-9/10/08

"Russia predicts record grain harvest, plans sales to China" World-Grain.com, 27/10/08

Credit crunch & the global economic slowdown have seen commodities prices fall from its peak. However, while economic growth is slowing, demand for food & fuel will continue to increase even if producers cut back supplies. Christoph Kampitsch, who helps to oversee USD1.5 billion in hedge funds at Erste Group Bank AG in Vienna, said: "In 9-12 months, soybeans, cocoa, sugar and wheat will recover. People also need to eat." (The Business Times, 8 Oct 2008)

The demand & supply balance of most grains & oilseeds suggest that once this selling is over, prices will bounce sharply back. (22 Oct, Resource News International via COMTEX)

With oil price sliding, how will it change the biofuels program worldwide? What is the impact on agriculture commodities?

So much of uncertainties on where the market is heading! CMT's World Grains Trade Summit will bring together top panel of experts to discuss pertinent issues during volatile times. This will be an excellent opportunity to network with global players & clarify your doubt at one venue.
